

Bootstrap Portfolio Project Instructions 2 – ShareSpace Coworking

Introduction

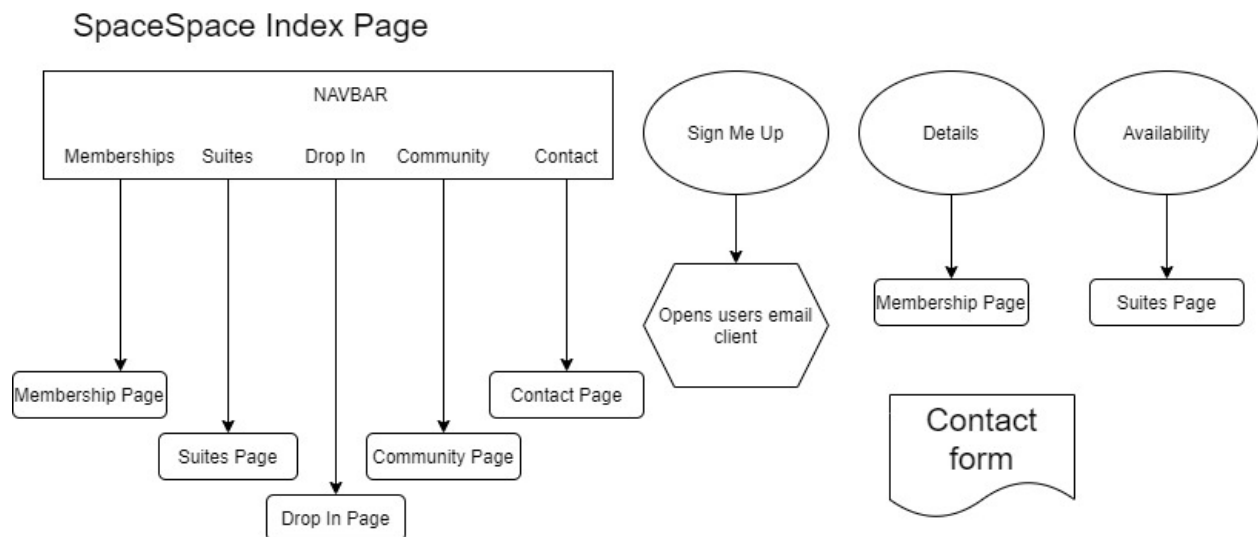

This project is a semi clone using bootstrap to develop a static web site. The topic of the website is a shared space coworking company. The website has three major goals to address.

- Provide accurate and eye-catching information about the company.
- Call-to-action for users to fill out contact form to apply for membership.
- Call-to-action for users to purchase “drop-in” passes for daily access.

2. User Interface Design and Prototype

Attached are mockups of the website index page. The index page provides textual information about the company and numerous images to enhance the page. A navbar is in the header area to direct the user to further information on the index page or on additional pages. Buttons are used to access the contact form and to purchase the daily access. The contact form is itself provided at the bottom of the index page making it easy to find / access

WHAT OUR MEMBERS THINK OF SHARESPACE

"I've worked at several different coworking spaces over the years... ShareSpace HITS DIFFERENT. Super friendly staff... clean (and quiet) environment... awesome network of people. 10/10 would recommend."

AUSTIN DIXON

"ShareSpace provides such a welcoming space for the independent worker, while simultaneously creating space for networking and collaboration! We love our Washington Cracker Building, second floor neighbors!"

MELISSA ARDALES

"Great coworking spot - convenient location downtown, a warm space that has areas for focus, creativity, collaboration and quiet work. Whatever you need to get through your work day is here."

SHANE COLLINS

"Fellow is an amazing community. I am an "older" convert to the gig-economy and came across Fellow a couple of years ago when I realized working from home was not going to work. The work space is both open and bounded; giving you the creative felling of working in community, but still offering the structure to get stuff done. The intentional thought that goes into this balance at Fellow is remarkable. The fact they have a full-time community liaison on staff makes a huge difference; always working to make my experience better (as well as tending to the collective). I recommend this place highly to anyone looking for an affordable, creative, and fun place to do what you do when and how you want to do it.

It is kind of everything I want in a work space and none of the things I do not want. Good people to work with, a creative environment and good coffee 24/7.
